Step 2: To register Disco, fill in your university email address and click Login as shown in Figure 1.5(a).

Important: Make sure to provide your university email address in this step. Otherwise, you will not be able to obtain an academic license (see Section 1.4).

You will receive an automatic email with the subject Complete your Fluxicon ID registration, which contains a personalized registration key. If you can't find the email in your inbox, please check your Spam folder.

Step 3: To activate Disco, provide the registration key that you received via email in the text field and click Complete registration as shown in Figure 1.5(b).

1.4 Obtaining Your Academic License (Windows and Mac OS X)

If you have used your university email address for the registration of Disco (see Step 2 in Section 1.3), then you will be automatically prompted to request an academic license as shown in Figure 1.6.

Read the information about the usage conditions for your academic license and tick the checkbox I have read, and agree to, these terms and conditions. Then press the button Request academic license (see Figure 1.6).
